

Notice of Teach Out Plan Requirement

American National University has applied for re-accreditation by its accreditor, the Accrediting Bureau of Health Education Schools (ABHES). Upon review of the university's application the accrediting commission determined that the university had not demonstrated compliance with the following accreditation standards to the satisfaction of the commission.

IV.B.1. An institution demonstrates that it has the financial resources to ensure continuity of operation and to fulfill its obligations to students and employees.

V.D.2.a. Each student demonstrates the attainment of the required program competencies in order to successfully complete the program. (Health Information Management Program)

V.J.1. A program maintains academic transcripts indefinitely, and other academic records that comply with Appendix E, Section A (Records Maintenance). (Health Information Management Program)

The university has been directed to demonstrate compliance with the above standards by submitting additional documentation by November 1, 2021. In addition, because of the commission's findings, ABHES requires the university to establish and maintain a Teach-Out Plan.
